

Brussels Furniture Fair is becoming increasingly international, with compelling figures for both supply and demand. About 65% of the visitors are from abroad, attending from some 40 countries. Foreign manufacturers make up 60% of the exhibitors, and boast many leading names – catering well to the tastes of the British furniture market.

The fair features seven, clearly segmented halls, connected by inspiring trend passages, and housing exhibitors that spare no investment in presentation and strong new collections.

As well as offering opportunities to boost sales, Brussels Furniture Fair also offers networking events, awards and warm hospitality.

This year, visitors will find planning their sourcing simpler thanks to the show's website, which via the 'favourites' tab, can be used to create a personal preference list, with all the necessary exhibitor information to hand

